

"I don't know what we'd do without you," Judy said.

"I found this in the compartment," he said, holding up a strange looking bug.

"What is that?" she asked.

"I believe it's a Bugbot. Fortunately, it doesn't appear to have been activated. It looks like someone put it in the compartment to be activated at a later time. I'll have to open the bug and see what I can find out."

"How can you tell that it's a robot?" Judy asked. "It looks just like a large bug to me."

"I can tell because it has a special imprinted number on its belly. That's the mark of a robot."

"Damn!" Judy exclaimed. "First we had a Flybot and now a Bugbot. Jean has been very active."
