

THE LIGHTED PATH

Life moves swiftly forward as we walk down the path together hand-in-hand.
Every instant we share encompasses a treasured time to remember.
The moments lie together along the path and light the way for others to follow.

Our love and compassion for each other shines brighter than the brightest star.
The brilliance radiates outward into the world that we share together.
With its fiery glow, we are able to walk down the path in daylight or darkness.

Together, we walk along the path always trying our best to do the right things.
Sometimes we stumble over rocks and have to help each other up.
Once back on our feet, we proceed swiftly and effortlessly again on our venture.

We have chosen to walk together, holding hands, along the pathway of life.
For us, there is no other way to travel than to do it with each other.
There is no end to the path as it continues going forward into the coming future.

My beloved, we are blessed with all the beautiful things that life has brought us.
We look forward and know that many, many more things will come.
There will never be an end to the lighted path, for it shall lead onward forever.
